CONTENT, STUDENT PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES, OUT-OF-CLASS ASSIGNMENTS
Curriculum Approval Date: 03/27/2017

4 Hours (1 Hour Lecture/3 Hours Lab)
Content: Introduction and review of course syllabus and grading procedures. Equipment needs and introduction of additional stretching and conditioning methods for participating in competitive basketball games will be discussed. Students who repeat the course will be provided with opportunities to lead and demonstrate.

Student Performance Objectives: Demonstrate the stretching and conditioning activities specific to basketball.

16 Hours (4 Hours Lecture/12 Hours Lab)
Content: Advanced offensive guard play, including detailed instruction and drill work for improving dribbling, passing, shooting, rebounding, cutting, and faking. Advanced offensive skill development for forwards and posts. Creating a lead against defensive pressure, advanced one on one moves from the wing, low post, and high post areas, advanced rebounding techniques, and additional shooting drills to improve one's skill will be presented through lecture, discussion, video, and guided practice. Students who repeat this class will become more proficient in these skills through supervised repetition of the drills.

Student Performance Objectives: Demonstrate and describe a variety of advanced offensive skills utilized by the guard, forward and post.

8 Hours (2 Hours Lecture/6 Hours Lab)
Content: Team offensive styles of play will be introduced. The nuances involved in more complex offenses such as UCLA's high post, reverse action and shuffle offenses will be presented through lectures, demonstrations, videos and guided practice.

Student Performance Objectives: Demonstrate the skills and movements required to execute these offenses from the guard, forward and center positions.

16 Hours (4 Hours Lecture/12 Hours Lab)
Content: Instruction and practice in advanced individual defensive fundamentals. Lessons will include a review of the proper stance and footwork as well as the incorporation of advanced multi-purpose drills such as the “Big Six” which includes contesting the lead, opening to the ball, fronting the low post, closing out, playing one on one, and blocking out. Review of philosophies, techniques and skills necessary for playing team defense. Introduction and work utilizing 3 on 3 and 4 on 4 shell drills. Students who repeat this course will have the opportunity to work against more complex offenses.

Student Performance Objectives: Demonstrate the proper defensive skills during the six point drill. Demonstrate their skills in practice and game situations.

16 Hours (4 Hours Lecture/12 Hours Lab)
Content: Advanced individual skills for attacking zone defenses will be presented. Review of essential skills in addition to learning to screen the defense, utilizing the screen and dribble penetration to beat the zone. Zone offenses and zone defenses will be covered. Students will employ and attack more difficult zone defenses such as the extended 2-3 and 1-2-2 zones, the 1-3-1, and the 1/2 court trapping zones. Students who repeat the class will become more proficient in attacking any zone defense. They will more readily recognize these various zone defenses and employ the necessary maneuvers to be successful against them.
Student Performance Objectives: Discuss and demonstrate the zone offenses and zone defenses presented in class. Execute their skills in practice and game situations.

8 Hours (2 Hours Lecture/6 Hours Lab)

Content: Presentation on advanced fast break basketball, full court pressure defenses and press breaks such as UCLA's, Cincinnati's and the 11-person break drills. Instruction in full court man and full court zone presses and the press breaks to beat them. Lecture, discussion, video and drills will be utilized. Students who repeat the class will become more proficient in these skills through supervised practice.

Student Performance Objectives: Explain different fast break drills, identify various full court presses and explain the offensive sets to break them. Demonstrate these skills in game-like situations.
