Excited for halloween, meeting with Nolan to discuss club collaboration opportunities. Concerned about full participation in workshops at CCCSAA.

8.0  Discussion Items

8.1  CCCSAA follow up, Adam Lopez, President (10 min)

Grateful for all who were able to attend this event, as well as Ryan. The event went well. Leadership workshop helped teach Tanie different ways of organizing petitions. Nolan has noted a disconnect between our student government and our students, in comparison to other colleges. Connection with our students can help us to improve attendance of our events, as well as recruitment opportunities. Adam has noted a difference in population of students on different campuses in proportion to their student government. Smaller campuses allow for more intimate connection with students, and we should be working to improve the quality of our connection with students. Adam has learned of more things we can improve upon then we have time. Leslie has noted that the appointment of officers makes connection with students less accessible. However, appointment process of officers is not the only appropriate method to becoming an ASGC leader. Even if appointment process and other things disallow us the ease of accessibility, that premise is not sufficient to excuse us from seeking an improved connection with students. Ryan has noted well-attended previous open forum events for asgc to be accessible to students. Ryan has appreciated the well-mannered behavior of our leaders at the event, and how that helped him to more effectively run the event. Dr. Bresso provided an anecdote that serves to remind us the seriousness of the topic, as well as to further thank the leaders for their event.
8.2 Halloween: Final event planning, Adam Lopez, President (15 min)

Clubs are now able to choose their own themes, rather than a uniform theme for the entire event, in order to allow them more freedom of choice. Nolan has offered up the idea that we may treat the event as a game show, with the ability to host mini-games. Tanie offers up the idea of improv games at the event as well. Also potential idea for a dia de los muertos table, with student involvement. Adam has offered up the idea of creating a scavenger-hunt-esque idea that would encourage students to interact with all clubs. Potential for using incentives to encourage student participation, without sacrificing our ability to accommodate the amount of expected student participation.

- Jesus 1 - 2
- Makayla 1030 - 100
- Leslie 11 - 1230
- Nolan- whole thing
- Adam- Whole thing

Maybe we would be better suited adjusting our amount of events to the amount of leaders we have to facilitate them, before we get too in over our heads with ideas we commit to. Nolan has agreed to develop a schedule, and be the point person to direct and organize all those involved in the event on the day of

8.3 New promotional products for ASGC, Adam Lopez, President (10 min)

CCCSAA has shown others schools’ student leaders have business cards, clothing branded with their school logos. We need more adequately sized clothing that our leaders are willing to wear. Our current polo shirts were too big for us to wear. $800 of our advertising budget can be allocated to clothing. Nolan has suggested cardigans and half-zip sweaters. We definitely need polo shirts, t-shirts, name tags, water bottles, and pens.

- t shirts and polos
- pens
- water bottles
- name tags
- business cards

Uniform will be delegated to Adam, nolan, and Leslie

Leaders should present any ideas about clothing by pitching them to us in an agenda item. Either through our two promotional companies, or any appropriate vendors. alternate vendors must be able to provide us a W9 form, and be willing to wait 2 months for payment.

8.4 Updated bulletin board layout, Adam Lopez, President (10 min)
