Being Undocumented is Not a Latino Story

There's an estimate of 11 million undocumented immigrants in the U.S. from all over the world. Being undocumented is not a Latino issue, and there are organizations supporting all undocumented groups.

- ASPIRE empowers the undocumented Asian Pacific Islander communities http://sfbay.aspireforjustice.org
- UndocuBlack Network provides support and resources to the black undocumented community http://undocublack.org/

Have No Fear!

Any information that an undocumented student shares with a college or university is protected by FERPA.

It is important for students to know that application advisors financial aid counselors and other college support staff are not required to report undocumented students to the US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education records.

Learn about the laws and programs created to help you!

AB 540 and AB 2000 allow undocumented students to pay in-state tuition at public universities.

The requirements are:

Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals

Former President Barack Obama released this program as an executive action; therefore, it isn't a law. DACA grants a working Social Security Number, a work permit, a driver's license and protection from deportation among other benefits. For guidelines please see:

www.uscis.gov/humanitarian/consideration-deferred-action-childhood-arrivals-daca

You may request DACA if you:

- were under the age of 31 as of June 15, 2012;
- came to the United States before reaching your 16th birthday;
- have continuously resided in the United States since June 15, 2007, up to the present time;
- were physically present in the United States on June 15. 2012, and at the time of making your request for consideration of deferred action with USCIS;
- had no lawful status on June 15, 2012;
- are currently in school, have graduated or obtained a certificate of completion from high school, have obtained a general education development (GED) certificate, or are an honorably discharged veteran of the Coast Guard or Armed Forces of the United States; and
- have not been convicted of a felony, significant misdemeanor, or three or more other misdemeanors, and do not otherwise pose a threat to national security or public safety.

A Poem

By Roxana Amparo, Journalism.
Contra Costa College Student 2018

It's difficult to cut the roots from something grown so thick below my feet.

I cannot erase nor do I desire to remove myself. As I am, in my entirety, in a place that has required major changes to accommodate me.

I can see it on the faces of my parents, my friends, the little lady that sells fruta en la esquina trying to make it.

I don't remember the place I came from, but I know my dirt is sacred.

I know the sun is hot and the food is good.

That familiar sense of solidarity.

Left my Mexico and everything that was there.

I am an entity of what is fair.

And whatever is unfair to my people living in despair, living scared and unaware, can take the first elevator down to hell.

Because providing comfort for those who make us feel uncomfortable is not our job.

Because when they silence our voices and take away our power there is no second guessing.

But I'm not here to create nor to promote violence. My thoughts, my mind, my vibes will not be silenced.

Mujer de color, sin documentos. No peso nada para el viento. Pero si no hoy, cuando será mi tiempo?
